

Hospitality Management – Diploma

You're the type of person who loves to make someone smile. You love the excitement of a journey and know the unique wants and needs of a traveller. You crave to learn new things, meet new people and hear great stories. You're interested in business, technology, finance and a career that will take you places.

Vancouver Community College's two-year Hospitality Management Diploma program is geared to provide the employment skills to succeed in British Columbia's fastest growing industry. In the first year, studies focus on general business management tailored to hotel and restaurant settings. The second year delves deeper into key areas of hospitality management such as food and beverage cost controls, human resources, marketing and law, and includes a web hotel simulation course. Successful graduates of the diploma program can also choose to continue their studies and earn VCC's Bachelor of Hospitality Management or transfer into partner programs at institutions across Canada and around the world.
