VCC makeup artistry instructor shares favourite places close to Downtown campus

Kelsey Dickson is an accomplished makeup and beauty expert who has been working in the industry for 15 years and has been an instructor for VCC’s makeup artistry certificate program for the past 4 years. Her work has been featured on television, in magazines, and on many bridal blogs. She brings her passion for makeup artistry to the classroom. Here she shares her list of cool places near the Downtown campus.

Best place to grab a coffee: JJ Bean at Woodwards (146 W. Cordova St.). They make the best vanilla lattes and their cookies are definitely my weakness!

A great place to grab lunch: Tacofino (15 W. Cordova St.) is so delicious! It is a great place to pop in and have lunch, or grab it to go if you’re in a hurry.

Best place to shop: The Latest Scoop Gastown (305 Water St.). This is a cute boutique that carries a great selection of women’s fashions, accessories, and home decor items.

Favourite dinner spots: Tableau (1181 Melville St.). The food and drinks are delicious making it a great spot for meeting up with friends or date night. On weekends try their brunch, I highly recommend their chicken and waffles!

Favourite local business: Gloss Boudoir (119 West Pender St.). I am a little biased since when I’m not teaching you can often find me in the studio doing makeup and hair, and making women feel empowered and beautiful!

Great place to grab a drink: The Fairmont Pacific Rim Lobby Lounge (1038 Canada Place) is a great place to grab drinks with friends. The space is so glamorous and they always have live music.

Best place to spend some free time: Yaletown, specifically The Cross Decor & Design (1198 Homer St.) is a great place for home decor inspiration and I love Barking Babies (188 Homer St.) for treats for my Yorkie.

Best bakery: Pure Bread Vancouver (159 W Hastings St.). This bakery is full of incredible loaves, pastries and cakes and it is super close to the campus!
Teas of the World

Did you know that all tea is made from the same plant? Tea, one of the oldest beverages in the world, has many variations depending on where in the world it is grown. No matter where it is produced, the whole world loves a good cup of tea.

China – It is believed that drinking tea originated in China so it is fitting that the country produces the most expensive tea in the world. Da-Hong Pao tea leaves are valued at $1.2 million per kilo! The process of making Da-Hong Pao tea is a secret dating back to the Ming Dynasty and the drink has been declared a national treasure by the Chinese government.

India – India vies with China for the title of world’s largest producer of tea. There are more than 100,000 tea estates and 70% of the million metric tons of tea it produces is consumed nationally. Assam is India’s indigenous, wild-growing tea plant variety. The processed leaves produce a characteristically strong, full-bodied and malty tea.

Kenya – Kenya’s rich reddish soil has a high mineral content and the high altitude of the tea plantations mean that Kenyan tea has higher antioxidant content than other teas produced around the world. The international success of Kenyan tea has made it the top foreign exchange earner for the Kenyan economy.

Portugal – Gorreana is Europe’s oldest, and currently only, remaining tea plantation. Based on the island of São Miguel, the plantation covers 32 acres and produces about 33 tons of tea per year. The unique location, with neither a rainy nor a dry season, means that no naturally occurring tea plagues exist, creating a 100% organic tea.

Argentina – Argentina is known for its mate, a caffeinated tea made from the yerba mate plant, a species of holly. The vegetal tasting beverage is Argentina’s national drink and is known for its health benefits from its high levels of antioxidants, minerals and other nutrients. Argentina also produces black tea, exporting approximately 50,000 metric tons of it annually.

You can explore more about tea in VCC’s tea sommelier program (page 8). Learn tea procurement and storage, developing tea lists/menus, delivery of tea service, and training of staff. Each student will be required to complete each course before they are eligible to participate in a final exam, which is administered by the Tea Association of Canada.

This can be you – volunteer manager

By VCC instructor Milena Santoro

Does this sound like you? Friendly, outgoing, lover of challenges, flexible, helpful, organized. If so, then you might be a perfect fit for developing a career as a volunteer manager.

Volunteer management can be a part time or a full time job. Professional volunteer managers instead can have paid employment on a regular basis with non-profit organizations and educational or care facilities. Another aspect of volunteer management is helping to organize special events, fundraising and gala events, sports gatherings, and games or conventions.

As a volunteer manager you will be involved in developing community relations and community building. The skill set you need will be as varied as your work and possibly involve developing proposals, recruiting and screening volunteer applicants, training and orientation supervision, evaluation and reporting. Applying for grants and administrative tasks is also often part of the job description.

The job is multi-faceted, but comes with huge personal rewards. You will have countless opportunities to interact with volunteers who are giving of their time and energy because they too are friendly and like being helpful. You will help these amazing volunteers reach their full potential through many positive experiences.

Gemmology at VCC through the eyes of a student

What brought you to the Gemmology program?
I found out about the gemmology program when I was already enrolled in the jewellery art and design program. Gemstones are my favourite part of jewellery, so I wanted to focus on that.

Why did you choose VCC?
I chose VCC because I have taken a few courses over the years and have been happy with the education. Bonus being that this program is offered in the best city in Canada and my hometown.

How would you describe your experience?
My experience with the Gemmology program has been great! I went in thinking I knew a lot about gemstones but I quickly realized there was so much more to learn. My favourite part of the program has been hands on learning with real gemstones and equipment like microscopes. Donna Hawrelko has been an enormous help with her wealth of knowledge not just of gemstones, but the entire industry.

Anything unusual you’ve learned?
I learned that there is an opalized dinosaur fossil!

What do you design?
I use colourful gemstones in interesting shapes and design jewellery around them. I’m constantly amazed at the earth’s ability to create what are essentially beautiful rocks, so I like the focus to be on the natural beauty of gems.

Goals after the program?
My ultimate goal is to open my own jewellery store with a focus on gemstones. I hope to travel abroad to seek out ethical and eco-friendly gems straight from the source.

Meet Pranita Raj, VCC MDRT instructor

What do you teach?
I have been a MDR theory instructor since 2012, providing students with knowledge and practical skills for a career as a Medical Device Reprocessing Technician (MDRT). It is also my job to make students aware of MDR technicians critical role in healthcare and work as a member of a team in a fast paced environment.

What do you love about teaching?
I feel like my work has a purpose; educating and training my students well so they can make a difference in someone’s life. I like seeing my students grow in knowledge, confidence and skills. Plus, it keeps me learning new things everyday.

Can you tell us about your career path?
My teaching journey started in Fiji where I was a high school teacher after I graduated from the University of South Pacific with a Bachelor of Education degree. I migrated to Canada in 1999, worked at various jobs until I started a career as a MDR technician in 2006. I’ve always liked the idea of helping others and making a difference in people’s lives. When the opportunity arose to be the MDR instructor for Fraser Health in 2011 I took it. I still work there and at VCC.

How does your work influence your teaching?
Being a MDRT myself has helped me because it allows me to engage in hands on learning and gain experience. I can also see from my students’ perspective and understand the challenges they might face in theory and clinical.

What would people be surprised to know about working in MDR?
MDR is the heart of the hospital: MDRTs are like back stage crew in theater performance. We are not visible, however, without us the show won’t go on.

New course – Introduction to School-Age Care

Well educated and passionate educators are needed now more than ever. Studies show that children who have access to caring responsible adults in after school programs:

• develop critical thinking skills
• develop social and emotional skills
• have meaningful self-direction
• feel a sense of well-being and belonging as result of having access to a consistent, caring adults and learning community

• are able to take part in exciting and fun group games, creative arts activities and community field trips and events
• have access to nutritious snacks

These after school programs also support working families, support children with alternative learning needs and connect academic and home life environments.

However, there is no formal training for school-age care professionals. Various organizations develop internal training for the new employees or randomly hire people with different profiles and levels of education.

VCC’s “Introduction to School-Age Care” launching in January, has the potential to develop into a broader and more comprehensive school-age care program. The course will be taught by VCC instructor Tyler Summers who has been working in school-age care for two decades and is the executive director at Jericho Kids Club Child Care Society and a member of the School Age Child Care Association of British Columbia.

Participants in this course will explore broad-based, foundational knowledge and learning required to work successfully in school-age programs. Key concepts include child growth and development, three school-age domains (group games, self-directed social play and creative/fine arts), curriculum/program development, care and guidance best practice, and elements of the British Columbia Early Learning Framework.

The journey to writing
By Renée Saklikar, VCC writing instructor

In 1987, I entered law school; in 1991 I was called to the B.C. Bar as a barrister and a solicitor. But I’d always been a scribbler, words always fascinated me. I soon realized that a poet’s life was for me. I’ve kept all my journals from my law school days. Even then, interspersed with class notes on constitutional history, were many fragments of poetry.

In 2010, I graduated from the Writers Studio of Continuing Studies at Simon Fraser University. It was an experience that changed my life. In the studio, I had the great fortune of being mentored by three exceptional writers: Wayde Compton, (he and I released an anthology together, The Revolving City: 51 Poems and the Stories Behind Them, Anvil Press/SFU Public Square, 2015); former Vancouver Poet Laureate, Rachel Rose, and acclaimed author, Betsy Warland.

From these three, I discovered I had a story to tell: a kind of memoir, about being born in India, immigrating to Canada when very young, living all across Canada, and the bombing of Air India Flight 182. That memoir became my first book of poetry, Children of Air India, Un/authorized Exhibits and Interjections, which won the 2014 Canadian Authors Association Award for Poetry. It was also a finalist for the Dorothy Livesay Poetry Prize. An opera based on the book, air india [redacted], was the culmination of a two-year collaboration with Irish artists, and Vancouver’s Turning Point Ensemble.

I now have three published books, including my current book, Listening to the Bees (Nightwood Editions, 2018 and co-authored with GG award winning Dr. Mark Winston). Our book is a B.C. best seller and I’m now ending a three year term as the first Poet Laureate for the City of Surrey. As well, I serve on the board of the Surrey International Writers Festival, Event magazine and The Capilano Review. I also curate a monthly poetry reading series, Lunch Poems at SFU.

I love teaching creative writing at VCC and I hope my story shows: anything is possible once you set out on your writing journey.

Introducing makeup artistry graduate Kelly Bui

What is your current job?
I am currently a freelance makeup artist. My main focus is on bridal and commercial makeup.

Share an interesting thing about your journey
Prior to being a paid artist, I did a lot of free work to help build my portfolio. I volunteered to do makeup whenever I had spare time. This gave me the opportunity to gain valuable experience and to meet some of the most amazing people in the industry. It also led to paid gigs and referrals. Even now, I do volunteer and trade work in my spare time as it challenges me to work with different people in different kinds of environments.

What was the best part about VCC?
I liked that the tuition fees were affordable. I enjoyed the smaller class sizes which allowed me to have more one-on-one time with the instructors and I was able to get to know my classmates so we could learn tips and tricks from each other.

Where on campus was your favourite place to take a break?
Since I took mostly night classes, my favourite place was the cafeteria. I’d go there to grab a coffee before class and would sit there with my iPad and browse the internet for inspiration.

If you could have lunch with anyone, who would it be and why?
It would be Oprah Winfrey. She is a strong woman who went through a lot to get to where she is today. Her story inspired me to follow my passion and not give up on my dreams.

What would people be surprised to know about being a makeup artist?
People would be surprised that there are so many different career paths: freelance, film, special FX, blogger, celebrity makeup artist, counter work, and more. I still find myself taking additional courses or training to enhance my skills. Makeup is always changing and keeping up with trends is always fun.

7 tips to get comfortable with computers

1. Backup, backup, backup!
   With timely backups, you can avoid loss of important data which, often times, are irreplaceable. Backup options can include free and paid cloud storage options, and local storage media, such as external hard disks or USB memory sticks.

2. Explore new features
   The fastest way to learn is by doing. Be ready to make mistakes and learn from them. Current software and hardware technology come with myriad functions, and one of the quickest ways to familiarize yourself with those is to try them out.

3. Keyboard shortcuts
   Learn keyboard shortcuts for the tasks that you regularly perform – these can save you a lot of time and can, quite often, be used across many applications. For example, the shortcut to copy and paste a selected piece of text on a Windows machine would be Ctrl + C and Ctrl + V, respectively.

4. Join a learning group
   Learning can be fun and motivational if done in a group. Whether at your local library, or in a classroom, you can gain from the support of others who may have the same goals as you.

5. Threats, alarms, and privacy
   Adopt a conservative approach when sharing your personal and confidential information on the internet. Phishing is a type of scam where the scammers disguise as a trustworthy source in an attempt to obtain private information, such as passwords and credit card details. Look out for emails which link to fake websites asking users to enter their private information. Protect yourself by keeping your system and applications up to date.

6. Healthy body, healthy mind
   When working on a computer be mindful of your posture, and refrain from crouching, hunching, or working in one position for too long. While learning computer applications can be quite captivating, be sure to take regular breaks by getting up and stretching over a quick walk.

7. Grow from the basics
   All of the Basic Computer Skills courses have a hands-on learning component, making it easier for students to practice their skills in class with guidance from an expert.

Want to understand the basics of a computer operation? Start with the Introduction to Computers and File Management course. Comfortable with using a computer but want to learn internet features and tools? Take the Internet Applications course. Need MS-Office skills in Word, Excel and PowerPoint for work or personal use? Gain those with VCC’s Word Excel PowerPoint course. All of these can be found on the next page.

Prabhdeep Dhillon tells us about her experience:
I arrived in Canada just five months ago. I read about the Building Service Worker course in the Metro Vancouver newspaper, I attended the information session and after that I was admitted into the course.

I learned a lot during this program. My English was not very good before but it improved during the course. All the instructors were so good and I really liked their way of teaching. I particularly enjoyed my practicum at John Oliver Secondary School. During my practicum I gained hands-on experience with using machines like those for scrubbing and stripping, and gained knowledge of various cleaning chemical products. I also did waxing, cleaning the windows, sweeping and mopping.

During the program I worked in post-event housekeeping at Rogers Arena. I finished my course and had a wonderful graduation ceremony. I am really thankful to all the staff at VCC.

I really think that Vancouver Community College is the best college. It provides so many courses and opportunities to the students. The teaching and non-teaching staff are really nice and helpful.
